

Novel Light Transport Phenomena via Analogy of Electronic Systems

We investigate novel light transport phenomena via analogy of electronic systems without space-inversion symmetry and/or time-reversal symmetry. In particular, the spin-orbit interaction and the leakage of light, which exhibit remarkable contrast to electron, are utilized in order to design transport phenomena that are difficult to realize in electronic systems.

